

PANDEMIA HAIKU

As the incense smoke curls upwards
So also the spirit of my mind
Time to plunge into the pool of wakefulness!
#1 10/26/21

Street dogs sniff and bark
Old beaters nimbly navigate rough-shod pot-holes
Wait! Where did the pandemic I just forgot go?!
#2 10/27/21

My two young grandchildren laugh and shout
In backyard garden 'neath black stripe German heaven*....
It's possible I'll never see them again.

* The German flag has a black, horizontal stripe on top (Unpublished 10/27/21)

Hunting for new property
The gentle art of gauging pros and cons
Who is capturing whom?
#3 10/28/21

Gossamer thin she walks like willow
Bitter sweet church bells sing out Sunday
Our times are fading from memory.

He: scuffing a forlorn boot on wasteland gravel

She: waiting by the river for Lothlorien Prince

We: waiting for hope to prove worthy not traitorous

#5 10/28/21

As man my feet were mired in mud of cloying human misery

As artist failed to restrain the exuberant shards of ecstasy

Legacy message: my many losses are your gain; blessings

(What Van Gogh might have written to us all)

#6 10/28/21

Version2:

"Man with feet of clay mired in mud of misery

Artist sliced by ecstatic shards of Divine Vision

May my many losses be your blessings"

Mushrooms march 'cross vistas of subterranean consciousness

Embodying dreams of silent, flowering conquest

With soft flesh of fecund purpose.

Title: Form is emptiness, emptiness is form:

Black ink form suddenly emergent

Creates space out of that white which is not the form

Turning nothing into a something which is still not anything yet vivid
